Monkey and Hyena had an argument.

They went to a judge.
The judge thought, “Monkey will eat my maize. Hyena will eat my cattle!”
The judge told Monkey and Hyena to ask the village elders.
The elders also feared to pass judgement on Monkey or Hyena.
The elders told Monkey and Hyena, “The case is very difficult.”
They told Monkey and Hyena to ask the poor woman.
The poor woman agreed to judge their case.
She said to Hyena, “You are respected, big and a hero.”
Hyena said, “You are right. I will end this disagreement.”
“Monkey, you are too clever to quarrel,” she said.

He agreed!
She said, “You both agreed to stop quarrelling. Forgive each other.”
The poor woman solved the problem.
Monkey and Hyena

Author - Mulualem Daba
Adaptation - African Storybook and Dorcas Wepukhulu
Illustration - Salim Kasamba
Language - English
Level - First words

© African Storybook Initiative 2017
Creative Commons: Attribution 4.0
Source www.africanstorybook.org